SHEEJA MINU	pozytywna / positive	The PhD is a combination of synthetic research with theoretical and computational research. Research progresses in accordance with an individual research plan. The team led by the supervisor has extensive experience in theoretical chemistry and extensive contacts with physicochemical groups, which guarantees the successful and timely completion of the doctoral dissertation. The presentation was prepared very carefully. The doctoral student convincingly joined the discussion and answered questions. The doctoral student passed the exams provided for in the curriculum of studies. The Commission finds that the two-year training at the Doctoral School was properly used and creates a good basis for submitting a doctoral dissertation within the statutory deadline.
